For Judge of Court of Appeals,

R. K. WILLIAMS.

OF GRAVES COUNTY.

Patriot of the South—A. W. R. McAllister, Ballard, Calloway, Caldwell, Crittenden, Christian, Davies, Edmonson, Fenton, Graves, Grayson, Hancock, Hickman, Henderson, Hopkins, Livingston, Lyon, Logan, Marshall, McCracken, Muhlenberg, McLean, Ohio, Simpson, Todd, Trigg, Union, Warren, and Webster.

Some sensible people North feel nervous at the prospect of a restoration of the Union. They want to know if it means the restoration of Davis, Toombs, Beauregard, Cobb & Co. to places in this Government. They think of the Buchanan dynasty as one of the things that were, and that are to be. This is all an idle apprehension; such a reign as Buchanan's comes not a second time in one century. That last Congress of his was a body fit only to adjourn. It was nearly a match for the present one in those qualities that render bodies good for nothing but mischief. Now, there is a million to one against the chance that such another body as either of these will exist in this generation. We shall have next something different from either, and any change must be for the better. It may be set down very safely that the Southern people will never trust the conspirators in this rebellion again. The Union men of the South will not trust them, of course, and scores of thousands who have been seduced or forced into rebellion by them will last until they have changed their will trust them again. These conspirators have made a splendid demonstration of their incapacity. In all the acts of conspirators they have shown themselves masters, but ludicrously wanting in the qualities of statesmen. They began a revolution without a reason, and have conducted it without sense. They have brought the most terrible calamities on those who trusted them. The latter, once unshackled, will beware of these evil counselors. None will be so poor as to do them reverence.

But we ask the free States, are they half as certain as they can get rid of that incompetent corrupt faction that now discredits the Government and prevents what they profess to be anxious to accomplish?

The distempers of the times have turned up strange things—Benjamin, Cobb & Co., and Sumner, Lovejoy & Co., as great men, statesmen, leaders in the affairs of Government.

We say, however, let the wheel of fortune roll on; it will not turn up anything like the past; its like is not to be repeated. We shall have a different sort of representatives; and any change, we have said, must be for the better.

It is the part of a wise man to abandon what is impracticable; and this Southern Confederacy is one of the impossibilities. The rebellion will be put down—that is the decree of destiny. It is as certain now as it will be when it is down. No matter what obstacles may be thrown in the way; no matter what vicissitudes there may be in the contest. The power of the mass of this Union is against it, and they will not be diverted from the purpose. It is a power that there is nothing able to resist or divert from its purpose. The attempt to defy and to compel the Government to relinquish its just rights, and the rights of the loyal people, is a crazy attempt which had a galvanic life for a while; but it has no basis of interest to support it, and no reason to justify it; no future to promise, and no past to recommend it.

Some have hoped for foreign aid, and calculated upon it. That hope, ill-founded always, is idle now.

Others hoped for some sort of compromise that would leave the Southern Confederacy independent, or at least leave something gained. All idle. The rebellion must cease before a settlement. A Government entitled to no respect that will yield anything to an armed defiance.

Let rebels lay down their arms and go to discussion and the ballot-box for an adjustment. It must not be hoped that power will yield to coercion, or concede anything to an armed resistance.

There is now a plain road open. Let the South stand this insane rebellion—this failing and bloody experiment at force, and reverse the evil done by the wicked counseleers of her politicians; send back her members to Congress, and thus end this drama. It is the end that will be reached at last. It is just when the South will do in, and it was better done now.

Why persevere in a cause that is hopeless from sheer pride? It is folly to consult mere party obstinacy, to one's own detriment; when all is to be lost and nothing gained by it.

The battle of Chickahominy was the counterpart of the battle of Shiloh. The enemy saw his advantage, the time to strike the blow, and made a rush for, for a moment, was successful. Our advance seems to have been surprised, as was the case at Shiloh, and disconcerted. They give way, and if a less vigilant and skillful officer than McClellan had been in command, a Confederate victory of some consequence would have been the result. The enemy showed skill in the design and pluck in the execution, but they had to meet a General as quick to recover, and troops as brave as the enemy.

All impartial observers see that the result was a Confederate defeat. They rushed upon our troops at an opportune moment, and gained some advantages; but the result was a failure. The object was to check our progress and drive back our army; but they fell back themselves, and our army advanced.

The enemies of McClellan are not satisfied that he allowed his advance to be driven back temporarily. He had to cross the river, however. It is suggested to the editorial generals to instruct McClellan when he has to cross a river, to manage it so that his men shall all step over the stream at the same time; or at least have an understanding with the clerk of the weather that it shall not rain after his army begins to cross until all are over. He did not observe these precautions. He sent part of his troops over at a time, and allowed it to rain and raise the river, so as to delay his passage. Moreover, he didn't make an arrangement with Joe Johnston not to attack him until he was all over and ready. McClellan did all else that skill and diligence could do; but not attending to some of these foresaid arrangements which an editorial general would not have overlooked. Perhaps, after he sees our suggestions, he will do better.

Men who have countenanced rebellion and prated about their rights must be perfectly satisfied by this time that they are not to be recovered by arms. All the reasons and arguments that were wasted upon them a year ago could not satisfy them. All the appeals and persuasions had no effect. The only way to prove to them that armed rebellion was wrong, was by crushing it by force. Sometimes a sound and hearty thrashing will have more real beneficial effect than the most subtle reasoning. Plato, Aristotle, or Bacon could not convince a man who was spoiling for a fight that fighting was wrong. A sprig of shillelah will do more to convince him of his error than anything else.

This intense desire for a thrashing, we are convinced, is what actuated the most of those who plunged into this rebellion. It was for no right not guaranteed already under the Constitution, and perfectly secure to them—it was not to preserve any rights that were imperiled by sectional domination, but simply because they were spoiling for a fight. We think they should now be satisfied. There has been fighting enough to please the most fastidious. If the last year has not given every man in the United States his fill of fighting he must have a most unbounded stomach. But we are very sure that those who were most urgent and noisy, and really desired war in preference to every luxury peace could afford, are now content to say they have had enough of it. Certainly the Southern people have enough of it. Desolation and starvation stare them in the face. They have tried the benefits of this profoundly wise scheme in a republic and found it wanting. They are ready for peace, anxious for it, and we trust it will soon be declared.

The only thing that interferes and prevents this great, desirable end is the same men who originally caused the war. They would like to quit; would be satisfied to quit, if they could quit even. They know, however, that their necks are imperiled, and they will continue to keep up the fight until they have provided themselves with a place of safety. If Jeff Davis would skedaddle to some foreign country, peace would be restored immediately, and, doubtless, he is making preparations to effect that escape. So long as it is too dangerous for him to make the attempt, (for, doubtless, if he turns to fly, the exasperated people of the South would seize him), he will remain. So long as he can keep himself surrounded by an army as a guard, he will remain. He and those like him, are, in reality, keeping up the war, not the Southern people, and the crashing of the armies has the effect of depriving them of that protection which is necessary to their safety in the South as in the Union.

We trust, however, that, although these men are thoroughly convinced that they wanted a thrashing, and are now fully persuaded that they have got it, they will not wholly forget other rights in which the whole nation is interested. We hope they will not forget that it is to the interest of all of us for them to resume their neglected duties. By doing so both they and the loyalists will be secured in their rights; and we are in favor of "their rights." We wish all the functions of the Government vigorously at work performing their parts. We believe by that means alone can we hope to preserve our freedom.

What a blessing it would be to the country, and what a grand step in the march of prosperity, if those revolted States would at once declare themselves in the Union, and seek the redress of their rights under the Constitution. This they should have done at first. The means were there plainly laid down, and it was a clear proof that those who claimed particular rights did not want any, unless it was a thrashing, when they rejected Constitutional modes of redress. We are, however, in favor of granting the largest forgiveness, not only for the sake of the sinner, but for our own.

In their security and in the preservation of their rights, our own are involved, and we have that wholesome regard for whatever concerns us that we feel most kindly disposed to leniency.

There are legitimate means for the redress of grievances, and means which we favored a year ago and favor now. We mean a national convention to settle irritating questions. By that alone can we hope to alleviate that morbidly irritated feeling in the South so long fostered by arrant demagogues, and restore the Union as it was. A free interchange and a calm settlement of vexed questions, will give the harmony we have not had for years and will rebuff the efforts of its strongest weapon. We wish this could be done now. We see it strongly recommended by a correspondent of the New Orleans True Delta. The move comes from the right direction. It is a less vigilante and skillful effort than McClellan had been in command, a Confederate victory of some consequence would have been the result. The enemy showed skill in the design and pluck in the execution, but they had to meet a General as quick to recover, and troops as brave as the enemy.

All impartial observers see that the result was a Confederate defeat. They rushed upon our troops at an opportune moment, and gained some advantages; but the result was a failure. The object was to check our progress and drive back our army; but they fell back themselves, and our army advanced.

The enemies of McClellan are not satisfied that he allowed his advance to be driven back temporarily. He had to cross the river, however. It is suggested to the ELECTION FOR COUNCILMAN IN THE FOURTH WARD TO-DAY.—An election will be held in the Fourth ward, to-day, for Councilman, to fill the unexpired term of E. A. Buckner, resigned. At a meeting of the Union citizens held on Wednesday night, Mr. G. W. Herbert was unanimously nominated. He is an estimable gentleman, and an old citizen, long a resident of the ward, and will make an excellent member. We trust that to the voters of this ward will not fail to go to the polls to-day. It is a duty we owe to ourselves and to the nominee.

POLICE PROCEEDINGS.—Friday, June 6.—Owen McCann, charged with drunkenness and abusing his family, bail $200 for six months.

L. W. Boggs, charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct; discharged.

Edward Henthorne, drunkenness and abusing his family; continued until to-morrow morning.

Clinton Clarnoyne, charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct; discharged.

Matilda Salsberry, drunkenness; skinned.

Com'd by Mary Tucker vs John Butler; dismissed at plaintiff's costs.

John B. Ketch, charged with being fugitive from justice, from the State of Ohio, continued until to-morrow morning.

Com'd by Lucinda Jackson (f. w. c.), peace warrant; own bond in $100 for six months.

George Fisher and James Cromwell, two free men of color, charged with being fugitives from justice, from the State of Tennessee; Cromwell discharged, and Fisher was recommended to await a requisition from the Governor of Tennessee.

THEATER.—We were very much pleased to see so large and fashionables an audience last evening at Miss Shaw's benefit. It was a compliment she richly merited. If there was any difference between her partings of last night and that of Wednesday evening, her last night's performance was an improvement. In the afterpiece of Asmodeus, she made her first essay, we believe, in that style of pieces, and confirmed the idea we had taken up—that she would play in light comedy with excellent effect. Her Carlo was very prettily given, and her singing was in excellent taste, and received with marked applause. This evening she makes her last appearance as Julian in the Honey Moon, and repeats the part of Carlo in Asmodeus. We trust she may have a crowded house.

Mr. Macauley's Ingmar was, as before, a highly finished performance; and his Duke of Araneo of to-night will be equally good.

DEATH.—The funeral of Capt. Henry Clay will take place this morning, at 10 o'clock, from Christ Church, on Second street, between Green and Walnut, the Rev. Dr. Clark officiating. We understand that the remains will be escorted to its final resting place, at Cave Hill Cemetery, by the Provost Guard, Col. Duffield's staff and body guard, four sections of the 13th Indiana Light Artillery, besides a large concourse of friends and acquaintances.

THE ANTONIO BROTHERS' CIRCUS was filled to excess again last night, a great many being unable to gain admittance. They will give a performance at 2 o'clock this afternoon. To-night they will give their last exhibition in this city. We hope they will have a large crowd to witness their extraordinary feats this evening. Go early, everybody.

Two new, large and beautiful locomotives have arrived at the depot at Jeffersonville, and will be conveyed to this city immediately, to be used on the Louisville and Nashville railroad.

THE PHENIX.—Another sumptuous lunch will be spread to the patrons of this house this morning, embracing all the luxuries of the season. Paddon's Louisville XXX ale on draught.

Capt. Watkins' company of Provost Guards were out on parade yesterday afternoon. They presented a fine appearance.

MR. MACAULEY.—We learn that a well accomplished young actor will take a benefit Monday night, and we bespeak for him a full house. Give them a call.

THANKS.—Mr. T. G. O'Riley, of this city, desires us to return his heart-felt thanks to the officers and members of Col. Boone's 28th Kentucky regiment, for their kind words to him while at Gallatin, Tenn.

We are under obligations to Joe Smithers, Esq. of Adams Express Co., for favors.

Remember the special election for

Councilman in the Fourth ward to-day.

PERSONAL.—Brigadier-General Lovell H. Rousseau arrived in the city last night.

RIBBON PENNERS.—Lieut. Harvey, of Capt. Blood's Cavalry, arrived from Bullitt county with a man named J. S. Gray in custody. Gray, it is said, has been acting in the capacity of soldier in the rebel army. Sergeant Goldsmith, also of Capt. Blood's Cavalry, returned from the same vicinity yesterday, bringing one Sanders as a prisoner. Sanders entertained a party at his residence a few nights ago.

The above is erroneous so far as Stephen Sanders is concerned. Mr. Sanders informs us, that on Tuesday, six men rode up to his house, in the midst of a heavy rain, and dismounted. He ordered his servants to take their horses, and they sought shelter in his house. They remained to dinner, and had their horses fed also. They had no arms, talked nothing of the present troubles, and in conversation at the table talked of going to Louisville to attend the government sale of mules. They paid for their dinners, and proceeded on their way. He entertained them, & provided many other strangers at his house, knowing nothing of them beyond the fact, that in the midst of the rain, they sought shelter in his house, and that they ate dinner, and left. It occurs to him that some misguided persons have magnified this fact into an entertainment of Morgan's men, and that he has through this impression been subjected to arrest.

REFUGEE.—A private and very interesting entertainment was given last evening at the High School building, corner of Ninth and Chestnut streets, being a repetition of the one given at the same place a few evenings since. By general request it will be repeated this evening, commencing at 8 o'clock.

This exhibition is adapted more especially to amuse and instruct a juvenile auditory, and will consist of a short experimental exposition of the various means of artificial illumination, views shown by the magic lantern, and will conclude with a display of colored fires.

IN THE EMPIRE OF HEALTH.—Who Wields Its Scepter.—Universal Empire has been the darling object of scores of despots, dynasties, and States, from the time of the Pharaohs to that of Napoleon le Grand. Seas of blood have been shed to attain it, and the bones of myriads who have been slaughtered in the pursuit of this chimera, would, if it could be measured, in one mile sweep the highest peak of the Himalayan mountains. Rome came nearest the consummation, yet even she was never, in truth, the absolute "Mistress of the World."

Yet there is a species of universal empire which has been attained. It is an empire not over the souls and bodies of mankind, but over their diseases. The conqueror who has achieved this grand result is Doctor Holloway, of London; at least we are taught to believe that he has done so by your means, and that he is the most illustrious physician, which seem to be irreproachable, and which, in fact, so far as we know, have never been challenged. His Pills and Ointments are "universal remedies" in a double sense. They are disseminated throughout the habitable globe, and they are (so "crowds of witnesses" assure us) universally successful.

In this country it is quite certain that the Pills are used with the most beneficial effect in disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, and that scrofula, and all the family of eruptive diseases and discharging sores, are cured by the healing operation of the Ointment.

Surely the noblest of all universal empires is that, which stretches its healing scepter over the maladies of all nations. Day Book.

It is reported that Beauregard's flight from Corinth was sent to the military prison on the 5th inst., for refusing to take the oath, came forward yesterday and took the required oath, and gave bond in the sum of $20,000, conditioned that he would well and truly keep the peace towards the Government of the United States, and that his conduct and conversation should be that of a loyal citizen, and that he would not go south of the southern boundary of Kentucky, during the present rebellion, without permission from the military authorities.

REGAL FISH.—We have received a note from a gentleman of Troy, O., dated June 4th, advising us that the rivers and canals in that part of the State are floating large quantities of fine-looking fish, which have died from some unknown cause, and which may possibly be shipped away as lake fish. He does not say that any have been shipped, but that possibly somebody may do so.

Testimony of Rev. S. J. Brown, one of the old pioneers. "Prove all things; hold fast to that which is good."

CINCINNATI, Dec. 20, 1861.

Dr. C. W. EBBECK—Dear Sir: I have been carrying out the above motto in proving the qualities and worth of your "Stomach Bitter"; for over six months, during which time my self and many in my family, and others, have been using it to others, and to persons who need a pure invigorating Tonic Bitter, refreshing and strengthening to the system. I cheerfully inform their goodness, and use them in preference to all others.

Very respectfully, S. J. BROWN.

The citizen soldier will find a more deadly foe in the black, mucky water, and damp night air than in the mud of the Ohio River. The mud of the Ohio, seeps into the blood and strengthens the stomach and heart of the soldier can endure these hardships and still be strong and healthy. Only 25 cents per box.
